Ruiz is talking with Garbalo and Franco about the new building. Apparently they are waiting for an O.M. from Havana. Ruiz seems concerned about the maintenance of the building, as it has six floors and a basement. Havana will have to send an electrician, who is also a plumber, and that understands something of carpentry. They will need three or four other people to act as doorman, watchman, etc. The wives of these men will be the chairwomen of the building. Garbalo says once that Havana approves the building they will have to sit down and talk over what difficulties having Spanish personnel might present. Ruiz doesn't want Spanish personnel under any circumstances. He speaks of having two dining rooms, one for the General Office and the other for the Embassy; more meals prepared outside will be served. The dining room will be completely isolated so that no visitor or invited guest will be able to place anything in the ceiling nor in the walls without being seen. They are going to install a closed circuit television so that all entries and exits will be controlled. Ruiz says that a Japanese type television of the kind they are discussing only costs something over $500, and he adds that most likely there is one in the American embassy.

1. Of possible interest to addressees is a translation of the following letter dictated by Guillermo RUIZ Perez to his secretary on 26 December 1969. The letter was addressed to a comrade "OCUZA or LANUZA (fon)" in Havana in response to a confidential note received by RUIZ from Havana.

"In relation to your confidential note number 7240 about the Spanish prisoners, Joaquin AUVI Casals, Lazaro GARRIDO Sanchez and Antonio MARQUEZ Pedraza, whose release was requested in a note from the Spanish Embassy in Havana, I would like to tell you the following: Firstly, Senor Joaquin AUVI Casals was of interest to D. Pedro SALVADOR de Vicente; but because of the bad record and activities of this man, it was understood that his departure would be denied. I talked to Pedro SALVADOR about this matter and upon mentioning this man's background he told me that his interest was due to a phone call he had received from a friend of his in Miami. He considers that, given the background in this case, his friend was supposedly an instrument of "other interests". Secondly, regarding the other Spaniards, we have no objection whatsoever to their departing the country. Without anything of further consequence,....."

SUBJECT Cuban-Spanish Commercial Relations

SOURCE An official Spanish service from a source described as sensitive and usually reliable.

1. On 23 September 1969 the Cuban Minister to Spain, Guillermo Ruiz Perez, called on Pedro Salvador de Vicente, the Special Delegate for Latin American Affairs in the Spanish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, to discuss the forthcoming trade negotiations in Cuba. During the discussion Salvador told Ruiz that the one and only question which concerns the Spanish Government is that of Cuban indemnifications and pensions for Spanish employees, and he asked Ruiz what the latter could say regarding this problem. (Field Comment: The indemnifications refer to property owned by Spanish nationals which was confiscated by the Cuban Government.) Ruiz claimed that he had no instructions on what he could say, adding that the claims were numerous and that the paperwork involved was difficult and required a great deal of time.

2. Salvador told Ruiz that the subject of indemnifications and pensions must be discussed during the forthcoming negotiations, and that the Cuban Government must provide at least an approximate figure of what it is going to pay. He said that the indemnification figure must be based on the value of the expropriated properties, less the amount of any taxes levied on the properties. (Source Comment: Salvador did not say what would happen if the Cuban Government failed to reach some agreement on the question but he implied that negotiations would be delayed until the Spanish Foreign Ministry received the Cuban Government's reply to this question.) (Field Comment: Since the conversation between Salvador and Ruiz was held before the recent change of the Spanish Cabinet and other Government positions, there is no information on how these changes would affect the question raised by Salvador on the signing of a new trade agreement with Cuba. As of 17 November 1969, Salvador was still Special Delegate for Latin American Affairs.)

3. (Field Comment: Until recently, the indemnifications and pensions problem had not emerged as a serious factor in the negotiations for a new trade agreement. There has been a gradual deterioration of Spanish-Cuban commercial relations since the conclusion in May of preparatory negotiations for a new agreement, but this deterioration ostensibly was the result of a Spanish Government decision to reduce Cuban sugar imports over the next three years. The Cuban Government apparently had not considered such decision in its analysis of Cuban-Spanish commercial relations, and it was quite upset when the decision was revealed during the preparatory negotiations. Some of the problems causing the strain in Spanish-Cuban relations were previously reported in TDCSDB-315/2470-69, TDCSDB-315/02182-69, TDCSDB-315/03509-69, CS-311/08659-69 and CSDB-312/02600-69.)

One 'Miss' CONCHITA calls asking for RUIZ. NILDA says she is his secretary and CONCHITA may leave the message with her. C and R have not seen each other for two years and C would like to surprise him. NILDA asks for her last name; C does not give it to her because it would then fail to be a surprise, but leaves her telephone number (201-49-89) for R to call her after 8, for she works until that time. On NILDA's insistence C gives her last name as CAMACHO, adding she is the widow of the doctor who was director of the Coimbra Hospital.

RUIZ calls Mrs. CAMACHO at 201-49 89. She begins the conversation by saying they had met at a party which she had attended with her husband at the Dominican Embassy in Madrid. She reminds him that they had talked with the Paraguayan Ambassador and former Dominican Ambassador Rafael COMPRES, and that the party had taken place two years ago. Despite all the details RUIZ insists he does not remember her and asks how he can be of service to her. She tells him "I have just arrived and find myself somewhat isolated, disoriented, and I must find work. I recall you telling me on that occasion 'If you should ever have any problem and you come to Madrid, look me up.' One other ambassador also offered me his assistance and I have tried to locate both of you." Mrs. C mentions having a daughter, that her husband was a pilot and that she is a Spaniard, adding she is not too old. R replies that in all honesty he does not remember her. She insists on seeing him to have a chat, and R suggests she come to his office at her convenience. She prefers talking with him alone, without his secretary or anyone else present, and suggests a bar at some hotel like the Palace, Ritz or Hilton. He is agreeable to any place she may desire; they agree to meet that night at 9:30 in the lobby of the Hilton Hotel. She will be dressed all in black.

RUIZ calls FERNANDO. F is to meet R outside the latter's home about 9 o'clock dressed in coat and tie.

Comments of AMAUTO-1 on Current Topics of Interest

ACTION REQUIRED - REFERENCES

The following comments of AMAUTO-1 reflect Cuban thoughts on the Czechoslovakian situation, internal Spanish politics, and the effects of recent changes in the Spanish Government on the impending trade negotiations between Spain and Cuba.

a. The Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia has been a disaster; however, criticizing the Soviet action would mean taking sides with the Americans. A friend may be criticized in private but publicly he should be defended. (QUDOZE, 19 November.) The Cubans have to side with the Soviets for military and economic reasons and because, whether right or wrong, they belong to the same ideological camp. Cuba had and still has enormous discrepancies with the Soviet Union, China, and the United States but weighing the differences Cuba is with Communism as opposed to Capitalism. (QUDOZE, 3 November.)

b. AMAUTO-1 was asked by his government to report on the new Spanish Government which Havana calls "Opus Dei". To a visiting Cuban official he admitted that he was at a loss to understand Spanish politics but attempted to define them. It is not true that the Spanish Government is in the hands of the Opus Dei. There are some men in the government who lean toward the Opus Dei but there are others of a very different leaning because they come from the Falangist ranks. These men (the Falangists) may go along with the Opus Dei line because they allow themselves to be "carried by the tide" but they are not of the Opus Dei. (QUDOZE, 19 November.)

c. Concerning the impending trade negotiations with Spain, in addition to the economic problem the Cubans are now faced with another impediment which further delays the negotiations: the recent changes in the Spanish government. It is difficult at this time for the Cubans to approach any Spanish official because of the climate of confusion among them. Most Spanish officials have no idea as to whether they will remain in their posts or will be replaced. Therefore, it is futile for the Cubans to press them for action on the negotiations. The most they can do is wait patiently until the situation is normalized. If the negotiations are not held within the 30-day expiration period of the agreement, it is possible that the present agreement can be extended for two months. This would be advantageous to the Cubans because during the first two months of the year they will be able to acquire all the goods they will need for 1970. (QUDOZE, 19 November).

1. Please cancel all clearances mentioned in Reference. Since AMAUTO-2's separation from AMAUTO-1's household and her immigration to the United States with her husband, AMAUTO-5, we no longer have an operational interest in her. As you know, AMAUTO-3 was used solely as an intermediary for a warm approach to AMAUTO-2. This was accomplished, and we have had no further contact with her. No Station contact was ever made with AMAUTO-4.

2. After the departure of AMAUTO-2 from AMAUTO-1's household, the Station soon learned of her replacement and this information was passed to the QUSEQUIN's. It was decided that the QUSEQUINs would attempt to recruit the new domestic, but for unknown reasons, contact was never made. ACTION REQUIRED: REFERENCE TYPIC/QUDOZE/Juan TORROBA Gomez, Spanish Minister to Cuba

On 10 October 1969, Guillermo RUIZ Perez, Cuban Charge in Madrid dictated a letter to the Cuban Foreign Office setting forth his impressions of Juan TORROBA Gomez. These impressions by RUIZ can be interpreted as the preparation of a target study on TORROBA. The following is a verbatim text and translation:

El analisis que se realiza sobre las actividades desarrolladas por el Senor Juan Torroba y su -----, la falta de interes y comprension de parte de ----- nos da un conocimiento directo sobre las actividades de la Embajada de Espana en esa que nos puede ser muy util en nuestras relaciones. Antes de su llegada hemos tratado de ahondar en la personalidad del Senor Torroba y aparte de confirmar la buena opinion que los espanoles tienen sobre su persona, hemos conocido tambien que es hombre debil de caracter y que en esa medida pueda ser influenciado a pesar de su ----- personalidad (o capacidad). El cargo que desempeña de sub-Director de Asuntos Consulares es en realidad un cargo de asesor en materias consulares pero sin mando. Es acertado la tesis de ayudarlo en su trabajo y aun llegar al extremo de que algun funcionario como el intimide con el de forma tal que esa debilidad de caracter y propension a la influencia ajena pueda servirnos a nuestros propositos. Es indudable que un ataque al Senor Torroba en el sentido de hacer deficit su tarea traeria como consecuencia inmediata una mayor influencia de aquellos que sin lugar a dudas estan interesados en que se convierta en ----- Por otra parte no consideramos posible que aun en el caso de que su trabajo no sea el mejor pueda hacerse una substitution de otro funcionario que -----.

TRANSLATION:

The study being made of the activities of Mr. Juan Torroba and his (word indistinct), the lack of understanding and interest on the part of (word indistinct), give us a direct insight into the activities of the Spanish Embassy there (in Cuba) which could be very useful to us in our relations (with the Spaniards). Before his arrival (in Havana) we tried to probe into the personality of Mr. Torroba and, in addition to confirming the good opinion that Spaniards have of him, we learned that he is weak in character and that from this angle he could be influenced despite his (word indistinct) personality. The position he held as Deputy Director of Consular Affairs (in the Spanish Foreign Ministry) was actually that of advisor on consular matters but he exercised no authority. The idea of helping him in his work is apt and could be carried to the point where some officer like himself (of similar category) could intimidate him in such a way that his weakness of character and susceptibility to outside influence would serve our purposes. There is no doubt that an attack against Sr. Torroba in the way of making his task more difficult would bring as an immediate result a greater influence on the part of those who are interested in having him become a (word indistinct). On the other hand we do not consider it possible even in the event that his work should not prove to be the best, that another officer could be substituted that (word or words indistinct).

In order to resolve the question of handling from this Embassy the departure of the (word indistinct), please clarify the reason why there has been a misinterpretation. Everything to the problems of Spain and Cuba through this Embassy will, of course, redound to our benefit. A clear case is the application for departure of (word indistinct) and his statement that perhaps (word or words indistinct) since the Embassy in Cuba... THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

SOURCE: US national, college student.

Source has been successful in a modest building construction operation, and appears to have access to investment funds. He is a raw source. His cooperation is by way of a prominent US police official, long a friend of his family.

1. A [US] friend of mine and I first met Manuel Tello, then Chilean Consul General in San Francisco, late in 1963, probably December, at the San Francisco Press Club. At that time, Tello was accompanied by several attractive young women, one of whom was his daughter, Carmen. Tello proved to be a gracious, polished diplomatic type and we all hit it off well together. As a matter of fact, we hit it off so well that Tello visited my friend's home from time to time, managed to interest him in a number of business ventures to be launched in Chile and later in Costa Rica.
2. Tello was quite active in the San Francisco area. Among his official interests were the sponsoring of a Chilean or pro-Chilean youth group, and an attempt to organize a group of businessmen able to finance commercial ventures in Chile. Integral parts of his plans were the Alliance for Progress funding and the recent California-Chile commercial and cultural programs. Ventures were to include the construction of several hundred thousand dwellings in Chile, a commercial fishing venture, to be based at Equique, establishment of a fish meal plant also at Equique, and the acquisition of a huge ranch or finca near Puntarenas in Costa Rica. The latter project, however, seemed more personally Tello's, whereas he was to be but one of several other investors in the others.
3. As months went on, suspicions of Tello's motives began to grow. Normal avarice is easily understood, but in the course of visits to my friend's home Tello began to hazard unmistakably anti-American expressions. He went so far that he was an attorney and had come from an old and wealthy Chilean family, but was something of a black sheep. He spoke of his mother's apologetic references to him as "her Communist son". Tello claimed intimacy with Salvador Allende and made it clear that "when", not "if", Allende was elected president, Tello was to be extremely influential in the new hierarchy. Incidentally, he also stated emphatically that if by any remote chance Allende were not to win, there would be a revolution in Chile by November 1964. Tello claimed also that he had visited several times with Raul Castro, and had met Fidel, all within the past year or so. He insisted that the US would recognize Cuba before the end of 1964. Tello said also that he was on good terms with important people in both the Soviet and Chinese Communist governments, and that both nations were anxious to have him as Chile's ambassador, but that he was not especially anxious to go. Another reference to Communist China was the possibility that Chile might have some small cargo ships built there.

4. Tello's pro-Communist and anti-American feelings were shared with his daughter, Carmen, who claimed to have been a youth group leader in the University of Chile. Another daughter, Patricia, I believe her name is, was said to be even more intensely anti-US. Either she or her husband is connected with a Latin American organization, possibly the OAS or Pan-American Union. Another daughter is married to the director of personnel in the Fertica plant in Costa Rica.
5. At times, it was clear that Tello's avarice transcended his concern for the poor. Once when another American suggested that the building of the houses in Chile would give employment to many more Chileans if they avoided use of pre-fab units and pre-cut timbers, etc, Tello was not interested. He wanted to get in, get as much as possible, and get out as soon as possible. At times he referred to plans to live in Europe after he had made a few financial killings.
6. I have details on only one Chilean proposal, this a fish meal operation known as Cachagua. It was formed within the past year with an authorized capital of E850 thousand [approximately US$57,500], about half of which was paid in. The prime investors were said to be Horst Enrique Espersen, Emilio Jannón Martínez, Gaston Pascal Leon, Cristian Casanova Subercaseaux, and Gonzalo Subercaseaux Camarita. Its main office is in Santiago; its plant in Iquique. Somewhere behind the scenes was Tello.
7. Somehow, in a manner I do not pretend to understand, Tello really wanted an American "front-man" in order to withdraw earnings in excess of what the law permitted. His planning for an American's participation included marriage to his oldest daughter, Carmen, who was later involved in a shooting incident in San Francisco in June 1964, shortly after the departure of her father to his new post in San José, Costa Rica, where he is now Charge d'Affaires.
8. In Costa Rica, Tello seems to have considerable influence also. One of his schemes there is the acquisition of a huge ranch in the Puntarenas area. The property, now self-supporting, lies between the Pan American highway and the Gulf of Nicoya. He plans to develop it both for commercial and residential purposes with the operation of a gambling sanctuary in the to-be-established resort section.
9. Tello's successor as Chile's consular representative in San Francisco is Hector Burr. He appears to have the same anti-US bias as Tello. At the time of the supposedly self-inflicted gun shot wound of Tello's daughter, Carmen, Burr said, "This is an international incident. My government will demand an apology from the United States." It was our guess by this time that Burr was interested only in creating anti-US ill will in Chile so as to enhance the election possibilities of Allende.

CHILE
Sept. 14, 1955

The Subsecretary for Diplomatic Affairs of the Colombian Foreign Office, Dr. Ricardo Anaya, informed an Embassy officer on Sept. 12 that the La Republica article was accurate only insofar as it reported that Ambassador Vargas had returned to Chile. Dr. Anaya said that as far as he was aware Ambassador Vargas had gone to Santiago to make final arrangements for the visit to Chile of the Colombian War College, scheduled for September 14 to 29. The Chilean Embassy states that the Ambassador returned to Santiago accompanied only by his wife. First Secretary Sr. Manuel Tello Troacoco is Charge d'Affaires ad interim.

TO AVOID POSSIBLE UNFAVORABLE POLITICAL CONSEQUENCES, ALLENDE'S TRAVEL TO CUBA WAS TO BE CAMOUFLAGED BY AN INVITATION TO PARIS TO SPEAK ON 9 APRIL TO THE "FRIENDS OF UNESCO," WHICH WOULD ENABLE HIM TO STOP IN CUBA EN ROUTE TO EUROPE.

 Item 12

7 October 1968

HILDA PAUL A. GARCIA, Minister of the Ministry of Foreign Commerce, Tel-70-05-50. Guillermo Ruiz wants to take to Raul LEON. Ruiz says, We had the meeting, that I told you about, today. There was no time to cancel it as your cable didn't arrive on time. Consequently I had to attend. Because I had no concrete instructions, I was limited to listening to their good wishes and to try to arrive at an understanding between us. The Marquis that conducted the meeting was very pleasant and conciliatory. When they started to talk figures, I avoided the issue. Then I said that this meeting would be nothing more than to make contact between us and that at the moment there was nothing more I could do. We agreed to hold another meeting on 17 October, at which time they would like to hear our ideas. I promised nothing, but that I would confirm the meeting by telephone. He (the Marquis?) said that it would give no time to discuss it. Leon says "Did they say anything about the OCEA affair?" Ruiz says "No, just ideas on other things, but they in no way mentioned the OCEA affair." Raul says "Just ideas in general". Ruiz says, "Just commercial ideas. They wanted to hear the Cuban ideas". Ruiz wants Leon to send him instructions for the next meeting. He wants to know if anyone is coming from Havana to attend the meeting.

RUIZ CALLS TERCEIRO AT IBERPLAN (phon).

They greet one another very cordially, and Ruiz thanks him for sending the list. Terceiro asks how things were in Havana. Ruiz says fine in every sense, and adds "they are in the ten million ton harvest, now more than ever, as we are hitting the 'cyclamates' where it hurts". Terceiro asks "if you people paid for the campaign or not?" Ruiz says no, that luckily it was the American Department of Agriculture. He adds, "We have calculated that it will leave us, free, approximately one million tons of sugar. The price of sugar has reacted very well, and now a Sugar Conference is to be held in Geneva. You know we are going to get out propaganda now that will state "Only Cuban sugar does not cause cancer". Terceiro laughs, and says "some other problem yes, but not cancer." Ruiz says that the campaign has come at a perfect time for them because they have been struggling for years with the [Illegible; artificial sweeteners?], especially in Japan, as they represent approximately one-half million tons. Japan was the country that used it most.

Terceiro says that he has begun to study the famous issue of the Chamber of Commerce. RAMON greets Ruiz and says that he would like to take a book to him and also to talk to him about a personal matter. It is in reference to a recommendation made by Ramon's father for some people in Cuba that are interested in going to Spain. Ramon continues, and says that he is going to Mexico and Venezuela in December and if he can combine it he would like to go to Cuba also. He says, "It will be the moment for IBERPLAN to become familiar with Cuban reality once and for all". Ruiz says he can see him next week.

Item #5

A PERSON (MALK CALLS and asks for "contact". Nilda says she does not understand his language. The man asks that if it is the Cuban Embassy, to please put him in "contact". Nilda says--4252. Ruiz talks to the man and says "Look, don't be a fool nor so idiotic we have grown up; we now have ten years of revolution, and we are not likely to fall into the kind of provocation that you are trying to do. You can tell that to whoever gives you orders or whoever is recording this conversation." The man asks Ruiz who he wants him to tell that to. Ruiz answers "Don't bother me any more. Tell it to the CIA or whoever gives you order, because probably it is the CIA or some other person. The one that gives you orders. Moreover, if you are tapeing this, so am I. I was waiting for your call. You just called a few minutes ago, so don't be an idiot." The man then says, "You think that the CIA gives me orders". Ruiz answers, "Most likely it is the CIA that gives you orders as the only enemy that Cuba has is the CIA, the Central Intelligence Agency, don't be a fool." The man says, "You are very intelligent", and Ruiz answers, "It is not a question of intelligence. It is simply that in ten years we have learned something." The man then says, "Ten years, eh", and Ruiz answers "Ten years of revolution, ten years with guns in our hands." Then the man says, "In this moment do you have a gun in your hand." Ruiz answers, "Yes, we have a gun in our hands. We are always waiting for the CIA; morning, noon, and night, always with guns in our hands." The man: "If you think I am under orders of the CIA you are a little silly." Ruiz answers "Look, I don't want to continue this conversation. You are a fool. I, too, am playing the part of a fool, because the telephone in my embassy is completely intercepted, I imagine. Everyone is listening to us, so you are an idiot, and I am silly to talk to you. Therefore, goodbye sir, and please don't bother me again." Ruiz hangs up.

1. The AMEDITS have just completed the QUDOZE transcripts for the period 19 September - 13 October 1969. This was the second group of transcripts forwarded the AMEDITS for translation, per our trial period as mentioned in reference A, in order to make them more fully useful to different components at Headquarters. The take from the QUDOZE operation appears very interesting. We noted with interest that AMAUTO-1 discusses freely with his subordinates and privileged visitors subjects of a confidential nature, including matters that have to do with intelligence activities. Some of the discussions offer a number of operational leads which we can follow-up, such as the medical information given on 22 September 1969 in the morning hours.

2. The AMEDITS have suggested that as an aid to help them translate accurately and possibly more rapidly, they would appreciate receiving some original tapes in addition to the transcripts on a trial basis. Then when parts of the transcripts are not understandable to the translator he would have readily available reference for replay.

3. With the next transmittal of the next QUDOZE material, we would appreciate receiving both the transcripts prepared by the station and the actual tapes covering the same period of time. The complete package can then be forwarded to the AMEDITS for their use as mentioned above.

They had told him that someone was waiting to see him, and now a girl comes in: RUIZ was expecting her. He greets her. She is a correspondent of Siempre, the Mexican magazine, and Ruiz has arranged an interview for her with Mrs. RUFINO or TAMAMES(?). This girl asks if she told him that she was going to Cuba. No, replies Ruiz, all she did was to send her "background". He asks her if she is carrying her magazine's credentials. She always does, she says.

Ruiz tells her what she must talk about at the interview, about politics in Spain and its relations with the United States. She must have her questions prepared beforehand, and even the possible replies. She must enter them carefully as if they were unimportant, but with a socialist sense.

Ruiz explains to this girl that what is of interest is Spain, the superstructure, the railroads, the banks, the national organizations, but not the fundamental things, yet well tied up, all the way to the bone. He says that people here are soccer fans, but later you can ask, "What do you think about a socialist regime in Spain?" The thing is to stop people in the street, one at a time.

You must take into account that Pazo is considered one of the most brilliant politicians of all times. He is sagacious, intelligent. If communism had triumphed here it would have been the first communist country in the world, and yet neither communism nor socialism has anything to do here while Franco is in.

The girl came from Czechoslovakia, and she talks about that country and of Poland, where she has not been, but they have told her a lot about it. She depicts life in Czechoslovakia as extremely sad. She had been there in 1963. She comments that what they did last year in Czechoslovakia was to set the country back tremendously, because that was the first time that people had taken an interest in national affairs. Society was so rotten that people rebelled, but the invasion caused such a great shock that people sunk into a state of apathy from which they are not coming out. They are heading for a crisis that not even the Soviets will be able to stand. People have no interest in their work. Machinery is far behind. The scale of wages is disastrous. The only people that make money are the physicians and the nurses, who charge for a visit the equivalent of a worker's monthly salary. Besides there is tremendous corruption. And so the wage scale, the old machinery, and the corruption make life unbearable. It must be taken into account that they crushed 200,000 persons and that 35,000 Party members are in jail under suspicion. Before, people stood in line to join the Party; now they tear up their Party cards in the street. Disillusionment is enormous. Marxism as conceived by Lenin or Marx is no longer applicable: it must be brought up to date and placed in the current scale of technological evolution and world production. No one in Czechoslovakia wants to go to the USSR. Everybody, especially the students, wants to leave for Austria or Germany. The black market is up to date. The definition is very sad.

Fidel's latest speech, published by Prensa Latina, was distributed through the Embassy, but they got hold of the copies and destroyed them. They say that leftist publications raise whatever they want or whatever interests them, and Fidel's speech was of no interest to them, since they did not analyze it thoroughly.

She says that there is a latent revolutionary sentiment throughout Europe. At the Sorbonne there are some powerful centers where they compare the performance of the Chinese and Asiatic outbreaks more than they do the Soviet ones.

This correspondent says that when she gets to Cuba she is going to visit FIDEL, because there is a trend of distrust of Cubans throughout Europe, because they think that they receive information only through one channel.

Upon hearing these somewhat anti-Soviet remarks on the part of the correspondent, Ruiz interrupts her and says they have to be on the side of the Soviets for two reasons: first from the military and economic point of view, and also because right or wrong they are on the same side of the fence and must fight against those on the other side. Cuba has had, and still has, great discrepancies with Russia, China, and the United States. In the face of all these discrepancies we are on the side of communism because we are against capitalism.

Ruiz says that in order to find out if you are a communist you must ask yourself if you agree with distribution of wealth and land; equitable distribution of production, respect for man, nationalization of industry. This is what counts.

At the end this girl says that the only truth is that unfortunately we Cubans cannot live in peace in any socialist country. Men like FIDEL and CHER, in a country of seven million people, going against the whole world all by themselves. You should see the treatment Fidel gets from the intellectual magazines in the USSR, Czechoslovakia, and Poland.

Ruiz calls WILDA and tells her that this woman comrade is going to interview Mrs. TAMAMES or TAMAYO (ph) and asks WILDA what her personal opinion is about [the lady]. She says she has only seen her three or four times, and [asks] in what sense he means. Ruiz says that this woman comrade is from the Mexican magazine, Siempre. Nilda tells him that this lady is very superficial and fickle. She is from Havana. The correspondent wants to know what opinion [they have] of her husband. They say he is "un poco masca" [screwed] of a fly.

Then this correspondent wants to know the address of either a Mexican or the Mexican consulate. Ruiz says that if it is to exchange her Madrid-Mexico ticket for a Madrid-Cuba one, go by Puenarral 15, and ANCOBO, a Spaniard, or PACHECO, a Cuban, will make the change for her. It seems she wants to leave on Monday. She wants them to take care of her Mexican visa because she says that if she goes it will not be timely, after what happened with Humberto CARRILLO. She says that OLIVARES is now in charge. She is going to Cuba now and will go to Mexico in 15 days.

Nilda comes in and gives her the home telephone number of the lady she is going to interview: 226-86-96.

They told him that she was waiting for him, and now she is in. RUIZ was expecting her. He says to her. She is a correspondent of Stimmen, the Mexican magazine, and Ruiz is arranged on interview for her with Mrs. TAVIJO or TAMAYO(?). This girl asks if he told him that she was going to Cuba. He, replying Ruiz, all she did was to send her "background". He asks her if she is carrying a magazine credential. She always does, she says.

Ruiz tells her what she must talk about at the interview, about politics in Spain and its relations with the United States. She must have her questions prepared beforehand, and even the possible replies. She must ask them carefully as if they were unimportant, but with a socialist sense.

Ruiz explains to this girl that what is of interest is Spain, the superstructure, the railroads, the banks, the national organizations, but not the fundamental things, yet well tied up, all the way to the bone. He says that people here are socialists, but later you can ask, "What do you think about a socialist regime in Spain?" The thing is to stop people in the street, one at a time.

You must take into account that Pico is considered one of the most brilliant politicians of all times. He is sagacious, intelligent. If communism had triumphed here it would have been the first communist country in the world, and yet neither communism nor socialism has anything to do here while Franco is in.

The girl came from Czechoslovakia, and she talks about that country and of Poland, where she has not been, but they have told her a lot about it. She depicts life in Czechoslovakia as extremely sad. She had been there in 1963. She comments that what they did last year in Czechoslovakia was to set the country back tremendously, because this was the first time that people had taken an interest in national affairs. Society was so rotten that people rebelled, but the invasion caused such a great shock that people sunk into a state of apathy from which they are not coming out. They are heading for a crisis that not even the Soviets will be able to stand. People have no interest in their work. Machinery is far behind. The scale of wages is disastrous. The only people that make money are the physicians and the nurses, who charge for a visit the equivalent of a worker's monthly salary. Besides there is tremendous corruption. And so the wage scale, the old machinery, and the corruption make life unbearable. It must be taken into account that they crushed 200,000 persons and that 35,000 Party members are in jail under suspicion. Before, people stood in line to join the Party; now they tear up their Party cards in the street. Disillusionment is enormous. Marxism as conceived by Lenin as Marx is no longer applicable; it must be brought up-to-date and placed in the current scale of technological evolution and world production. He was in Czechoslovakia wants to go to the USSR. Everybody, especially the students, wants to leave for Austria or Germany. The black market is up to date. The definition is very sad.

Fidel's latest speech, published by Frederic Letina, was distributed through the Embassy, but they got hold of the copies and destroyed them. They say that leftist publications praise whatever they want or whatever interests them, and Fidel's speech was of no interest to them, since they did not analyze it thoroughly.

She says that there is a latent revolutionary sentiment throughout Europe. At the Sorbonne there are some powerful centers where they compare the performance of the Chinese and Asiatic outbreaks more than they do the Soviet ones.

This correspondent says that when she gets to Cuba she is going to visit FIDEL, because there is a trend of distrust of Cubans throughout Europe, because they think that they receive information only through one channel.

Upon hearing these somewhat anti-Soviet remarks on the part of the correspondent, Ruiz interrupts her and says they have to be on the side of the Soviets for two reasons: first from the military and economic point of view, and also because right or wrong they are on the same side of the fence and must fight against those on the other side. Cuba has had, and still has, great discrepancies with Russia, China, and the United States. In the face of all these discrepancies we are on the side of communism because we are against capitalism.

Ruiz says that in order to find out if you are a communist you must ask yourself if you agree with distribution of wealth and land, equitable distribution of production, respect for man, nationalization of industry. This is what counts.

Men like FIDEL and CHE, in a country of seven million people, going against the whole world all by themselves. You should see the treatment Fidel gets from the intellectual magazines in the USSR, Czechoslovakia, and Poland.

Ruiz calls NYLON and tells her that this woman comrade is going to interview Mrs. TAMAMES or TAMANO (ph) and asks Hilde what her personal opinion is about [the lady]. She says she has only seen her three or four times, and [asks] in what sense he means. Ruiz says that this woman comrade is from the Mexican newspaper, Simoes. Nilda tells him that this lady is very critical of the gobierno. She is Ena Havana. The correspondent wants to know that opinion they have of her husband. They say he is "un poco loco" a somewhat of a fly.

Then this correspondent wants to know the address of either a Mexican or the Mexican consulate. Ruiz says that if it is to exchange her Madrid-Mexico ticket for a Madrid-Cuba one, go by Fuencarral 45, and AMIGOS, a Spaniard, or PACHECO, a Cuban, will make the change for her. It seems she wants to leave on Monday. She wants them to take care of her Mexican visa because she says that if she goes it will not be timely, after what happened with Humberto CARRILLO. ACTION : See paragraph 5, below
1. Headquarters maintains its high interest in AMAUTO-1 as a long-range, in-place recruitment target. Much of this interest is kept alive by the excellent operational reporting done by Station Madrid over the past year, of which references C and D hereto are good examples.
2. Subject's position and total personality recommend him to us as a high-potential target. He is strongly intellectual and emotionally committed to an ideal. At the same time, he exhibits certain vulnerabilities which could be exploited. We believe, however, that AMAUTO-1 could be approached only in a classic sense: a rationally developed, long-range recruitment culminating in what would be essentially an intellectual and even ideological pitch. This course of action would take time and assets, but we think he would be eminently worth it.
3. First, his access not only is good now but seems destined to improve. Secondly, if he were our agent, he has the wit and the acuity to know what we want and submit information accurately based on requirements. Lastly, he is a strong personality who could be counted on to move flexibly but effectively within the target milieu.

4. As a recruitment target, however, AMAUTO-1 seems to present serious difficulties. He is strong-minded, opinionated, idealistic, and apparently committed to the revolution. On the other hand, there are certain things about him which could be converted into recruitment vulnerabilities. First among these is his apparent belief that the regime (read: The Revolution) is not making the best use of his talents. One cannot tell precisely whether this is the cause or result of his apparent basic emotional instability. During public appearances he displays polished manners and a pro-regime attitude; in private he frequently complains to his subordinates that he did not ask for a diplomatic position, that he would prefer an industrial job, and that he believes his position to be more a handicap than a promotion. Secondly, he obviously desires personal prestige and luxurious living. While these traits do not mean so much in the case of a Cuban as compared to a Soviet or Chinese, hardships and economic mismanagement in Cuba do in fact create a contrast with his basic impulses. Thirdly, his spinal ailment has been diagnosed as incurable. While this may be true, he should realize that further examination by other medical men (while on a training mission in VOLADY, perhaps) could help him considerably. There may even be other vulnerabilities which further target study could expose.

5. We present these thoughts at the same time that we are fully aware of other operational pressures on Madrid's time and assets. Nevertheless, we would appreciate the Station's comments on further development of AMAUTO-1 as an in-place recruitment target. The first need would be the proper access agent, someone with a Jesuit-like intellectual training who can deal with him in the realm of concepts and philosophy as required. In any case, we would like continued target reporting on AMAUTO-1, as your time permits.

1. On 23 September 1969 AMAUTO-1 called an unidentified Spanish woman who resided in Cuba for many years before re- turning to Spain. AMAUTO-1 noted that he visited the Spanish woman's cousin, identified as Esther CORRIPIO, while he vacationed in PBRUMEN and found everyone in good health. The unidentified Spanish woman asked AMAUTO-1 if there was much food available and the following dialogue began: AMAUTO-1: Yes, everything is being resolved. But imagine to be free, one must pay a high price and the price must be paid. There is no other way. WOMAN: What one wants, one must pay. AMAUTO-1: It is very logical, but look, when one is a servant to the rich, the servant usually lives relatively well, but the servant continues as a servant. However, when one no longer wants to be a servant to the rich, one has to begin saving and the only way there is for the poor to save is to reduce (the intake) of essential foods, change the essential and begin to buy machines and to buy a series of things (cuestiones) and one day, we will become rich together. We can say we are rich when we have resolved all the problems, not only material problems, but spiritual, cultural, that is, when everyone can do and believe as he likes. Distribution: 2 - C/WH 2 - C/EUR 2 - COS, WH/Miami ....continued CS COPY

1. WE BELIEVE THAT CHANCE ENCOUNTER WITH AMAUTO-1 ALONE TOO DIFFICULT TO ARRANGE SINCE AMAUTO-1 IS FREQUENTLY IN COMPANY SOMEONE FROM HIS STAFF OR HAVING LUNCH WITH SPANISH OFFICIALS OR BUSINESSMEN. MOREOVER, ENCOUNTER UNDER THIS SITUATION, WE FEEL, WOULD NOT PERMIT RELAXED EXCHANGE BETWEEN SAMKO AND AMAUTO-1. WE WOULD LIKE TO SUGGEST FOLLOWING ALTERNATIVE:

A. ON ARRIVAL SPAIN VIA AERONAVES DE MEXICO FLIGHT 450 LEAVING MIAMI FRIDAY SAMKO WOULD GO DIRECTLY TO HOTEL OF STATION SELECTION. STATION OFFICER WILL ALSO OCCUPY HOTEL IN ALIAS AND INITIAL CONTACT WITH SAMKO WILL BE MADE IN HOTEL. (INCIDENTALLY, BELIEVE NO NEED PACHANKIS ACCOMPANY SAMKO TO MADRID.)

B. EARLY SUNDAY AFTERNOON SAMKO WOULD GO DIRECTLY TO AMAUTO-1'S PRIVATE RESIDENCE. HIS EXCUSE WILL BE THAT HE WOULD HAVE GONE TO EMBASSY BUT WAS CERTAIN THAT

EMBASSY WOULD BE CLOSED. IN ADDITION, SINCE SAMKO SCHEDULED TOUR OF MADRID AND SUBURBS LEAVING EARLY MONDAY MORNING DECIDED MAKE EFFORT CONTACT AMAUTO-1 AT HOME RATHER THAN POSSIBLY MISS OPPORTUNITY TO SEE HIM. (SAMKO WILL BE INSTRUCTED TO SIGN UP FOR TOUR OF CITY TO LEND AUTHENTICITY TO STORY.) SAMKO WILL HAVE TO BE PREPARED REPLY TO INEVITABLE QUESTION FROM AMAUTO-1: HOW DID YOU FIND MY ADDRESS? SAMKO'S REPLY WOULD BE THAT HE OBTAINED ADDRESS FROM IBERIA EMPLOYEE AT AIRPORT WHO SPENT CONSIDERABLE TIME TRYING TO LOCATE AMAUTO-1 RESIDENCE. (ADDRESS APPEARS IN DIP LIST AVAILABLE OVERTLY.) SAMKO WOULD FURTHER EXPLAIN, IF NECESSARY, THAT HE DID NOT KNOW HOW EMPLOYEE GOT ADDRESS, BUT KNOWS SHE MADE NUMBER OF TELEPHONE CALLS. WE CANNOT PREDICT AMAUTO-1'S REACTION TO THIS DIRECT APPROACH. HE MIGHT CLAIM PRESS OF BUSINESS OR OTHER COMMITMENTS THEREBY REFUSING SEE SAMKO IN HOME BUT MIGHT SUGGEST THAT SAMKO VISIT EMBASSY MONDAY MORNING. SAMKO SHOULD BE PREPARED TO SAY THAT IF THIS WOULD NOT EMBARRASS AMAUTO-1 HE WOULD GLADLY CANCEL TOUR AND GO. TO USE STANDARD LINE

C. AMAUTO-1'S PROBABLE SECOND QUESTION: HOW DID SAMKO KNOW HE WAS IN MADRID? REQUIRES MORE THOUGHT AND HELP FROM MIAMI. IDEALLY, SAMKO SHOULD BE ABLE SAY THAT A MUTUAL FRIEND OF BOTH AMAUTO-1 AND SAMKO WERE TOGETHER RECENTLY IN MIAMI AND AMAUTO-1'S NAME MENTIONED. 2. (FIELD COMMENT: ACCORDING TO ANOTHER UNTESTED SOURCE WHO WAS AN EYEWITNESS TO THE 4 MAY INCIDENT, THE CROWD INCLUDED 23 MEMBERS OF THE CUBAN EMBASSY AND A NUMBER OF CUBAN EXPATRIATES MEETING AN IBERIA FLIGHT FROM HAVANA WHICH WAS CARRYING 75 CUBAN OFFICIALS AND 30 CUBAN REFUGEES. MAXIMO T O R R E S, FORMER MAYOR OF SANTIAGO DE CUBA AND A MAN OF OVER 60 YEARS OF AGE, ADDRESSED ONE OF THE ARRIVING CUBAN OFFICIALS, MISTAKING HIM FOR A REFUGEE. THE OFFICIAL REBUTTED HIM RUDELY AND A GENERAL ARGUMENT ENSUED AND BLOWS WERE EXCHANGED. HORACIO F U E N T E S MARTINEZ, FIRST SECRETARY OF THE CUBAN EMBASSY, JUMPED FROM A NEARBY CAR AND PISTOL-WHIPPED ONE OF THE REFUGEES. AFTER THE POLICE ARRIVED, TORRES AND HIS WIFE NEEDED MEDICAL ATTENTION.)

3. ON 6 MAY, ROBERTO F R A N C O OLIVA, CUBAN CONSUL IN MADRID, COMPLAINED TO A SPANISH POLICE INSPECTOR CONCERNING THE INCIDENT AT THE AIRPORT AS FOLLOWS:

INVESTIGATING AND WOULD GIVE CUBAN OFFICIALS THE PROTECTION IN SPAIN WHICH THEY SHOULD HAVE. HE SAID THAT THREE CUBAN REFUGEES HAD BEEN ARRESTED AND WOULD BE DEPORTED TO FRANCE. FOR THEIR PART, THE REFUGEES HAD SAID THAT HORACIO FUENTES HAD PULLED OUT A GUN DURING THE FIGHT, A CHARGE WHICH FRANCO DENIED AT LENGTH.

B. MANY OTHER ATTACKS HAVE BEEN SUFFERED BY CUBAN OFFICIALS AT THE AIRPORT AND DAMAGE DONE TO THEIR PARKED CARS.

C. WHEN CUBAN SEAMEN ARE ARRESTED BY THE SPANISH POLICE IN THE CANARY ISLANDS THEY ARE INTERROGATED SEPARATELY IN THE POLICE STATION BY AN AGENT OF THE CIA WHO IS A CUBAN "GUSANO" (TURNCOAT).

D. ALTHOUGH THERE ARE SPANISH REPUBLICANS AND SPANISH COMMUNISTS IN CUBA, THE SPANISH EMBASSY IN HAVANA IS NEVER MOLESTED.

E. FRANCO IS PREPARED TO ADVISE CUBAN PASSENGERS COMING TO SPAIN TO CARRY RAZORS FOR SELF DEFENSE. CUBAN OFFICIALS, PARTICULARLY THOSE WHO GO TO THE AIRPORT, SHOULD APPLY FOR LICENSES TO CARRY PISTOLS.

4. (FIELD COMMENT: ACCORDING TO AN OFFICIAL SPANISH SERVICE, CUBAN DIPLOMATS MAY APPLY FOR GUN PERMITS TO THE SPANISH FOREIGN MINISTRY AND WOULD PROBABLY RECEIVE PERMISSION. NON-DIPLOMATIC CUBANS MUST APPLY TO THE DIRECTORATE GENERAL OF
